Corn and Beans

As of this writing, cash corn is $4.68 and cash soybeans are $9.70. Corn is $.58 higher and soybeans are $.60 higher than two months ago. March corn futures are $5.02 with support at $4.95 and then at $4.88, resistance is at $5.06 and then at $5.10. March soybean futures are $10.38 with support at $10.29 and then at $10.19, resistance is at $10.44 and then at $10.51. Grain prices have rallied fairly significantly in the last 2 months. Better demand and lower stocks to use ration helped get the market moving in a positive direction but commodity and index funds have developed very large longs in this market with commercials being very short in the futures market. Planted acreage of corn and soybeans will become a key fundamental over the next few months. With corn acreage expected to jump to 94-95 million acres from 90.6 million. The big risk to the markets are tariffs. The biggest tariff threat is against Mexico and Canada, two of our largest trading partners. In 2024 Mexico bought $30.3 billion of ag commodities, up 7% from 2023. Canada bought $28.4 billion, steady for the last 3 years. China bought $24.7 billion, down 15% from 2023 and down 35% from 2022. Commodity exports ranked by value are : 1) Soybeans $24.5 billion down 12% in 2024. 2) Corn up 6%. 3) Beef up 6% at $9.1 billion with many commodities with export value over $5 billion. Most of us are hoping the threats of tariffs don't materialize. These are commodities our trading partners need and so far export demand is good as we are still the primary supplier of ag products to most countries. Increased competition from Brazil continues to grow due to their increased production and sharp drop in the value of the real, approximately 6% below a year ago. Seasonally prices should increase for the next 3 to 4 months but outside factors like tariffs and trade disputes could easily overshadow seasonal market gains of the last 2 months. Overall it looks like we are going to deal with uncertainty for the foreseeable future. That makes this time one to not bet big on a home run but spread sales out into multiple small ones.

Feel free to contact Logan, Cam or myself with your marketing plans or concerns.
